As Sunday School teacher, superintendent, clergyman, or professor of Religious Pedagogy, he has for over thirty-five years spent his happiest hours in some form of Sunday School work. Nothing is here presented which has not passed the test of his own experience, or that of fellow laborers whose words are commended in the chapters of this volume. The writer believes that the highest and holiest work that can be done for American childhood, the American Church, and the American Nation, is to educate the children of to-day in the love and fear of God. This book is sent forth with the hope, and prayer, that it may help those who are trying to do the work, to enter into the joy of their labor.
